Items Clipped From our Territorial Exchanges For the Benefit of Stockmen.

About six months ago, between 50 and 60 head of cattle were stolen from Henry Gill, whose ranges are adjacent to this town. Owing to illness in his family, Mr. Gill's attention was so distracted that he did not discover his loss until it was too late to find their trail, but efforts have been quietly continued to discover their whereabouts. Two weeks ago Deputy Sheriff Crowley, accompanied by J. S. Basset, R. D. Lockwood and A. L. Fave, started out to regain the cattle, the officer having learned that they were ranging in Box Canon on Rio Bonita, some 150 miles northwest of here. Fifty-six head of cattle, bearing the G Brand of Mr. Gill, were found, the G was partially obliterated by a diamond brand placed over it. The cattle were found in possession of two men, named John Considine and Henry Markham, who were brought here for examination and bound over to answer before the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each, in default of which they were taken to jail. The cattle were driven back here and turned over to their rightful owner. It is not thought that the parties named above are the ones who actually drove the stock away and they may be entirely innocent of wrong in the matter, but their refusal to give all the information it is thought they possess, is not creating a favorable impression in their behalf. Suspicion rests heavily on parties suspected of the theft, and although they have made themselves scarce for the present, the officers have good hopes of "rounding 'em up" shortly.—Wilcox Stockman.

George Frisk has been appointed inspector of cattle for the southwestern district of Arizona, in accordance with the recommendations of the stock association. He yesterday gave the required bond of $5,000 for the faithful discharge of his duty, and as soon as that can be forwarded to Prescott his commission will be issued. Hugh Percy and Thomas Steele are sureties on the bond. Mr. Frisk's appointment is one of the best that could possibly be made, and none will doubt that the duties will faithfully performed.—Wilcox Stockman.

The articles of incorporation of the Chihuahua Cattle Company have been filed in the office of the territorial secretary. The company is organized under the laws of this territory, to operate in Cochise county; its principal place of business is on the Eldorado ranch in that county. Its capital stock is $500,000, divided into $20,000 shares and the organizers are J. V. Vickers, J. C. Parsley, W. Upwood and Theodore F. White.—Miner.

Cows and copper, beet and bullion, gold and geldings, and short-horn and silver are the alliterative resources of southern Arizona.—Citizen.

It is said that cattle exposed to pleuro-pneumonia may go for months without showing any symptom and then die with the disease.

Papago Indians are reported to be killing cattle on ranches along the Gila side of Yuma.

The Atlantic and Pacific have put stock yards at Holbrook, and cattle scales with a weighing capacity of 50,000 pounds.

A few of the cattle companies operating east of us employ so many men to carry on their business that they are obliged to employ several superintendents and foremen, besides a general manager.—Journal.

A Serap of Early History.

The early history of the Territory is always of interest to those who have late fixed their abode in Arizona. The Yuma Sentinel in a series of articles proposes to recount the early incidents of Arizona Territory, commencing with its political organization. The Territory as is well known was once a part of New Mexico, from which it was taken, and now contains 120,912 square miles. Senator Gwin, of California, was the first to move for the organization of the Territory of Arizona, on the 17th of December, 1857, he introduced a bill into the U. S. Senate for this purpose. This bill failed. Two years thereafter, December 22, 1859, Senator Davis from Mississippi, introduced a bill to provide for a temporary organization of the Territory, which also failed.

On the 23d of December, 1861, Mr. Watts, of New Mexico, introduced in the House of Representatives, the bill which finally gave Arizona its temporary government, under which it now exists.

In March, 1863, the President made the following appointments for officers of the Territory, viz: Governor, John A. Gurley, of Ohio; Secretary, Richard C. McCormick, of New York; Chief Justice, John N. Goodwin, of Maine; Associate Justices, William T. Howell, of Michigan, and Joseph P. Allen, of Connecticut; District Attorney, John Titus, of Pennsylvania; Marshal, Milt. B. Duffield, of California; Superintendent of Indian Affairs, Charles D. Poston, of Kentucky. These appointments were all confirmed by the Senate, then in extra session. On the 26th of May, Levi Bashford, of Wisconsin, was made Surveyor General. In July, Mr. Titus was made Chief Justice of Utah, and the vacancy was filled by the appointment of Almon Gage, of New York, as District Attorney. On the 18th of August, Mr. Gurley died, and on the 21st of that month John N. Goodwin was appointed to the Governorship. Mr. Goodwin's place as Chief Justice was at the same time filled by the appointment of William F. Turner, of Iowa.

Lumber Resources of British Columbia.

The lumber resources of British Columbia are very extensive. The immense wood-lands of this province follow the Pacific for hundreds of miles, with a vast extension inland. There are two large mills manufacturing exclusively for foreign exportation. The Hastings Saw-mill Company cuts about 15,000,000 feet annually, frequently filling orders for special timber of an enormous size. Some logs have been cut 28 inches square and 110 feet long.

The Moodyville Saw-mill Company cuts nearly 20,000,000 annually, and employs about 100 men, having numerous electric lights for night work. Fincher has been brought to this mill measuring 7 feet 6 inches in diameter at the butt, and 5 feet 13/16 feet from the base. This is the Douglas pine or fir, and both companies own large tracts of that valuable timber. The Hastings Mill Company own a forest close at hand, which, it is estimated, will yield upwards of 400,000,000 feet, and constitutes a property of enormous value. Cargoes of lumber are sent to China, Australia, Sandwich Islands and all Pacific Coast ports, and spurs to England. Another mill is located at Port Moody.

The Rock Bay Saw-mill at Victoria has a daily capacity of 30,000 feet, and has good shipping facilities. At New Westminster are located the Dominion Saw-mills, which have a daily capacity of 40,000 feet of lumber, 12,000 laths and 20,000 shingles. Adjoining this are the Royal City Planing Mills, which cut 35,000 feet of lumber, 8,000 laths and 25,000 shingles daily. These two companies make sash, doors, blinds, furniture, etc., in great quantities. At Nanaimo the Royal City Planing mills have a sawmill which cuts 20,000 feet per day.—Pacific Rural Press.

The newspaper fraternity, including Mrs. Dutton of the Holbrook Press, gathered in Charles Zeigler's wholesale house yesterday and drank beer out of German mugs.—Albuquerque Journal.

Now that the newspaper friends of the New Mexico metropolis have given Arizona's only lady editor away in this manner, after inveigling her into this horrid slough of dissipation, we feel dejected and low-spirited. We looked upon the advent of this lady journalist from Washington as the dawning of a new era for Arizona. We no longer feared the calamities of the eastern press. Our claims to civilization ought to be recognized in the august majesty and possession of a female Faber pusher. But vain hope; these villains in New Mexico have shattered our delightful dream, and we will be confronted with a Police Gazette cut representing the Arizona editress with a 25-pound revolver in her corset strap, and a half gallon schooner of beer raised to her lips, and underneath withal the legend "She takes it by wholesale."—Phoenix Gazette.

A Good Many Failures.

During the year 1883 there were 10,563 failures in business in the United States and Canada. Some of these were big concerns, and some were very small. Failure is sorrowful business to any man, especially if it is his health that fails. A great many times 10,563 people fall in health in the course of a year. Many of them might be saved if they would take Brown's Iron Bitters, the great family medicine and restorer of wasted

The Mystic Power.

There is a subtle, mysterious influence about some persons, observes the Pittsburg Dispatch, that is truly remarkable. One of the singular features about it is that those possessing it have little or no control over it, and those affected by it have no power to resist it.

What this power is, or whence it comes is the mystery. It is generally believed that mind has influence over mind, independent of the will of the person concerned. A great many say they can feel the presence of certain ones without feeling or knowing they are near, while almost everyone is more or less affected by the presence of others, either strangers or friends. Thus it may be traced down to what is generally called like and dislike. The plain truth is that there is often less mutual affection between comparative strangers.

It is generally supposed that twins are devotedly attached to each other, but such is not always the case. Even the Siamese twins were constantly quarrelling, and had it been possible to get away from each other they would have done so most cheerfully. Occasionally twin brothers are found who apparently are only happy in each other's presence. Such instances are rare, however.

Scientists call it magnetism, spiritualists call it affinity of soul, but those who have it do not bother themselves about its nature on cause, being satisfied with the effect.

It is the same influence that renders preachers, actors and lecturers popular. To think that the success of these before the public is due to what they say or the way they say it, is a mistake. It is this mystic power, and it makes little difference about the elocution, the quality of voice, or the nature of the discourse. Some of the most popular actors have the most marked defect in voice. The uneducated preacher, one who has never seen the inside of a college, very often preaches all around those who are accounted profound scholars. Those preachers who are noted revivalists possess this power in a greater or less degree, according as they are more or less successful.

It was said of Dr. Sunderland, the elder, who was wonderfully endowed with this power, that he quit preaching on account of it. He feared that persons were drawn into the folds of the church by his influence who did not realize what they were doing. He is said to have been able to direct actions of persons simply through will power, and that without the aid of words or signs.

Henry Ward Beecher is filled with the same power, but not to as great a degree as Dr. Sunderland. He has the faculty, however, of transmitting it to the written page, so that those who read may feel his influence as well as those who see and hear him. The question which arises just here is whether it is good to possess such power or to be influenced by it. There are plenty of instances where it has done a great deal of harm. It is the strength of the libertine, the chief agent of the conspirators, and the talisman of arch-deceivers. This does not prevent it from being productive of good results. It is the power of God to influence the wicked, and that which renders music charming and social intercourse agreeable. It is not at all strange that occasionally it should be turned to an evil purpose. Bad uses are made of things given to support life, but that does not render these things unfit for proper use. It is the use to which means are put, and not the means that is evil. This power is as much a gift as any of the special talents, and its exercise no more sinful than that of the other gifts, if only exercised properly.

It is not love, but often mistaken for it. This is a serious mistake, and one that is very difficult to correct. One of its peculiarities is that it is not mutual. The person who possesses it to such an extent as to be able to greatly influence others rarely feels drawn toward those who are attracted by it. In instances where it is mutual it forms a strong bond, but where it is one-sided it is very unreliable. It is the secret of the conjurer's spell, the mind-reader's skill, the spiritualist's power. To be effective these must possess it to excess, in which case it becomes a dangerous thing, as it gives them control over not only the physical life of persons but also over their soul life.

Bulls on the Range.

Be it enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Arizona: SECTION 1.—No person owning twenty or more cows shall allow such cows to run at large without providing at least one servicable bull, of good American blooded stock, to run with each twenty, or fraction of twenty, cows permitted to run at large; and any person violating the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars.

Sec. 2.—All acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3.—This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.
